Three-Year Technical College to Be Established Here

OBSERVE JAYCEE WEEK — A proclamation making the week of Jan. 17 - 23 "Jaycee Week" is signed by Mayor Dean Cranmer. Gathered around the mayor are Richard Calvin, chairman of the Junior Chamber's Bosses Night program; George Equizi, chairman of Jaycee Week locally, and Arthur Herron Jr., president of the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce.

State Already Has Approved Local Program

School to Open Next Fall In Salem High Vocations Wing

A cooperative technical college may be established in the vocational department of the Salem Senior High School, it was disclosed today.

The proposed college, which will have a three-year curriculum, already has the approval of the Division of Trades and Industries of the Ohio Department of Education and needs only the formal approval of the local Board of Education to receive its charter.

Holland Cameron, head of the city's popular trades extension program, is expected to be named director.

The school board's approval is needed not only because it owns the building and equipment to be used in the proposed college, Mr. Cameron said, but also because all financial dealings for the new school will be handled by the board. The school board, in turn, is expected to be reimbursed by the state and through tuitions.

To Open Next September

The college is expected to open next September with facilities capable of accommodating nearly 100 students. He noted that in years to come, and as students progress in the curriculum, the enrollment should reach as high as 300.

Financial support of the school will be shared by the state and through tuitions. Most of the city's share of any costs already has been credited through existing buildings and equipment.

Mr. Cameron declared a big share of the credit for making the Technical College possible should go to Mrs. Sam Keener, who gave the school system $55,000 to purchase equipment for the vocational department when the high school was built.

The director emphasized that the new school will be no part of the existing Trades Extension program. He said the Trades school will continue as it is now, with Trades students attending classes at night and Technical College students attending classes in the daytime.

The only common factor between the two is that both will use the same facilities, Mr. Cameron said.

State Men Assist

Instrumental in establishing the Technical College are Dr. Byrl Shoemaker, supervisor of the Division of Trades and Industries in the State Board of Education, who gave the state approval, and Tom McConaughy, district supervisor for Northeastern Ohio in the Division, for helping to organize the program.

Although no definite curriculum has been set up for the new school, Mr. Cameron indicated it would include two major areas, electronic engineering and mechanical engineering.

He said that in addition to shop, math and science courses essential in a technical school, the new institution also will have courses in English, public speaking, and psychology.

Students in the cooperative program will work their regular jobs for nine weeks and attend the college for nine weeks, according to Mr. Cameron. He stated that the

Bliss Receives $3 Million Job

Salem Plant Shares In Argentine Work

The E. W. Bliss Co. rolling mill division here is expected to get part of a $3½ million contract for materials ordered by a South American steel company.

According to reports, the Salem plant is to supply a "two high 32½x66 inch temper mill, plate leveling line and miscellaneous materials" at an undisclosed cost.

A second portion of the multi-million dollar contract reportedly went to the Mackintosh-Hemphill Company of Pittsburgh, another division of the Bliss company which is expected to supply metal working rolls.

The contract price is to be split between the two divisions, Bliss officials said.

Purchaser of the materials, Sociedad Mixpa Siderurgica, Argentina, is reported to have on the planning boards the largest steel mill in Latin America. The firm is located near the city of San Nicolas, about 150 miles from Buenos Aires.

In the first year of production, the new plant is expected to turn out 600,000 tons of steel products. The production is expected to ultimately reach 3 million tons annually.

In December, the Bliss Company received a $5 million contract at its Canton plant for the production of heavy metal presses. Buyers of the presses was reported to be Fisher Body, a division of General Motors Corp.

Coal Firm Burglary Probed by Deputies

LISBON—Three cartons of cigarettes and two quarts of whisky were stolen last night from the R & R Coal Co. tipple on the Y & O Rd., Wellsville Rd. 1, according to Sheriff Russell J. Van Fossan.

William Ross, owner, reported the breaking and entering of the office and scale house this morning. The thieves broke the latch off the front door and pried open the inside door.

Desk drawers were ransacked, but nothing else was taken, Deputy Herman Wellman, who investigated, said.

Authorities Probe Background of Lawyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Authorities are piecing together the tangled background of Julian Andrew Frank, the heavily insured young lawyer suspected of setting off a suicide bomb in a plane that crashed with 34 persons aboard.

The Manhattan district attorney's office Friday pictured Frank as a man enmeshed in financial dealings that could have wrecked his promising career.

Friends saw him as a tall, lean man with a pretty wife and two handsome children who lived in an expensive suburban home, a man who could be as happy-go-lucky as he could be darkly brooding, and a man with a horror of planes and a strange prediction of death.

The district attorney said Frank, 32, was facing investigations of two complaints alleging embezzlement—one involving a Manhattan real estate transaction and the other regarding a loan for a hospital.

A complaint lodged last March alleged that Frank had misused $20,000 from a property sale he engineered for a client, pocketing part of the money himself. The New York Bar Assn. was notified of the matter.

The criminal investigation was held up after Frank had posted

Employment In December Set Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment hit a record 65,699,000 for December as the nation's economy rebounded from the steel strike.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said the December employment situation reflected a marked improvement from November with these results:

EMPLOYMENT—Up 59,900 to 65,699,000, a record for the month. This was the first December since World War II that showed no job downturn. Usually the December drop runs around 700,000.

UNEMPLOYMENT—Down 93,000 to 3,577,000. The seasonally adjusted ratio of idle workers to the total work force declined from 5.6 per cent in November to 5.2 per cent in December. Normally unemployment increases by about 100,000 in December.

A modest decline in the overall labor force accounted for a decline in unemployment greater than the increase in employment.

Seymour Wolfheim, deputy assistant secretary of labor, said the employment situation in December climbed back to its prestrike levels with indications the improvements will continue as workers laid off because of steel shortages are recalled to their jobs.

The strike ran 116 days until halted by court injunction in early November. The job recovery began rather slowly and mounted heavily in December.

Farmers Bank Officers Named

Lester A. Bateman Is New Director

Officers and directors were re-elected and a new director named when shareholders of the Farmers National Bank held their annual meeting Friday afternoon.

The new director is Lester A. Bateman, executive vice president of the Hunt Valve Co.

Mr. Bateman, who came to Salem from Cleveland in 1940 to join the staff of the National Sanitary Co., was named Eljer Division manager when the Murray Corporation acquired the sanitary fixtures plant. He resigned last March to join the Hunt Valve Co. as assistant to the president and a few months later became executive vice president.

He also is president of the Manufacturers Association and a trustee of the Memorial Building. He and his wife, Dorothy, and their two children reside at 861 Highland Ave.

Bank President E. M. Stephenson commented briefly on the changes that had occurred in Salem during the last ten years and cited economic and production gains by local industries. During that same period, the bank gained approximately $100,000 in total resources, he pointed out.

In connection with the bank's activities during 1959, Mr. Stephenson reported that earnings were satisfactory during the year and that after dividends and taxes, the bank had been able to make a substantial addition to its undivided profits account. He reported 3,055 accounts were opened, represented by $1,330,000 commercial accounts and $1,110,000 in savings.

The bank's capital and surplus accounts remained at their previous figures of $600,000 and $800,000, respectively.

Directors re-elected are: F. M. Campbell, Walter F. Deming, George B. Emery, E. M. Jenkins, Harry Krohn, Louis A. Matvei, F. W. McKee, T. E. Miller, George Perrault, Gail A. Rose, M. D. A. G. Tame, H. F. Wykoff, Victor Zerbis, Sr., and Mr. Stephenson.

The deadline for obtaining tags is Wednesday, afterward a $1 penalty will be added. Last year, 16,700 licenses were sold in the county.

A license is required for any dog over three months of age and must be secured to the dog's collar.

Owners not purchasing license will be cited to county courts for prosecution after Jan. 20, Reichenbach said.

Edmund Maras Flees County Jail In Illinois

Faced Prosecution In Barnett Holdup; Brother Is Held

Edmund Maras, 30, broke out of the Stephenson County Jail at Freeport, Ill., Friday night, canceling plans of Columbiana County authorities to return him to Lisbon for prosecution of the Barnett Motel Holdup.

Maras, who was indicted with his brother, James Maras, 20, for the robbery of the area motel Dec. 11, fled a cell at Freeport last night through an unlocked door moments after the jailor said he checked the lock. Four other prisoners in the jail refused to go along.

Fled In Freezing Temperature

Maras fled into the night without a coat or hat, although temperatures were below freezing. He had been captured with a companion, Dick Godfrey, 24, of Cleveland, when a third accomplice in a Dixon (Ill.) robbery was shot to death by police. The victim was Charles Harris, 33, of Warren, also reportedly involved in the Barnett Motel robbery.

The younger Maras is being held at the Columbiana County jail in Lisbon for arraignment Monday, and county officials were preparing to go to Freeport Tuesday to return the brother. They reside at Newton Falls near Warren.

The FBI is expected to enter the hunt for the older Maras as he was being held for Lisbon authorities on a federal charge of flight to avoid prosecution.

Godfrey pleaded guilty to aggravated robbery and was sentenced to 25 years in the Iowa penitentiary for a crime committed at Davenport before the fatal Dixon case.

Scholarship Group Names 2 Officers

E. M. Stephenson, president of the Farmers National Bank, was appointed treasurer of the Salem Community Scholarship Association at the trustees' first meeting of the new year. He succeeds L. H. Colley, president of the First National Bank who has been association treasurer for the past four years.

Gary J. Greenstein was appointed secretary for a two-year term, succeeding Ray J. Himmelsbach, recently elevated to a trustee's post. Both are sales engineers for the Electric Furnace Co.

In another action, the trustees authorized an additional loan for one of the students currently being aided by the group. This particular student is in his final year of college.

The trustees also noted two new applications presently being processed. Both are from local students in their final year at school. The Scholarship Association is still hampered by the lack of sufficient funds. President George Perrault revealed that an additional $315 has been received in contributions, bringing the year's total to about $1,800. With repayments from graduates running at the rate of about $140 per month and average yearly authorizations running nearly $4,200, the indicated shortage is about $700.

The trustees are hopeful that those who can will send a donation, no matter how small to Mr. Stephenson at the Farmers Bank.

Man Nabbed After Slaying

Police Hunt Weapon In LSU Murder

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Officers today pressed the search for the blunt-edged weapon used in the fatal hacking of science Prof. Margaret (Rosie) McMillan.

Authorities Friday gave the core of their case against Dr. George H. Mickey, 49, brilliant dean of the Louisiana State University Graduate School here, accused of the slaying.

The murder weapon was believed to be a tire tool or a blunt ax.

Deputies spent hours Friday near the lonely lane six miles south of the LSU campus where Dr. McMillan, 39, an assistant professor of biology at Louisiana State University in New Orleans, was killed. The deputies searched pastures, ditches, and the Mississippi River bank and piled up items for further examination.

Chief Criminal Deputy J. B. Kling Jr. and Dist. Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot said flecks of fresh blood on Dr. Mickey's car and

Three Pro-Hitler Youths Charged With Treason

By The Associated Press

An American representative at the United Nations has called on the world organization to denounce the outbursts of anti-Semitism throughout the world.

The appeal was issued as a New York court stunned three youthful American admirers of Hitler by charging them with treason. Conviction could bring the death penalty.

Widespread anti-Semitic flare-ups were reported in the United States, but the hate demonstrations seemed to be abating in Europe, where they began in West Germany Christmas Eve.

The resolution was presented to the U.N. Subcommittee on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities by Justice Philip Halpern of Buffalo.

In New York City, home of more than two million Jews, a judge ordered the treason charges placed against three youths accused only of consorting for an unlawful purpose—a misdemeanor.

"As I look at it," said Magistrate Solomon, "treason exists where one plots a war against society and his government."

Wounded 2 Others In Abortive Holdup

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP)—A masked gunman killed a salesman and wounded two other employees Friday night when he bungled a holdup at a big department store and tried to shoot his way out.

He was captured by the store's security officers after a plucky customer had landed a blow on the gunman's head with a can of cleaning fluid.

Several hundred shoppers were in the store, one of five suburban branches operated by Bamberger's New Jersey, of Newark. The holdup and shootings were at the basement credit counter, in an isolated area not crowd at the time.

The gunman, Edward Lehman, 30, was charged with murder and held without bail. Police said he told them he had come here a few days from Phoenix, Ariz. He claimed he was a University of North Dakota graduate and has a master's degree.

When men at the Bergen County prosecutor's office remarked that he did not look remorseful, Lehman replied: "What do you want me to do, put on an act?"

Authorities said the gunman had entered the store, at the center of a big highway shopping plaza, just before 6 p. m. He headed for the lower level and the credit department.

Vaulting over the counter with a hankerchief tied across his nose and mouth, he waved a pistol and said: "This is a holdup. Nobody move."

A sizable amount of cash was in the department. John Blanch, 49, on Cedar Grove, credit manager, grappled with the bandit.

The gunman fired. Blanch fell with bullets in the chest and shoulder and a scalp wound.

Leo Zaritsky, 47, of Rutherford, was at work in the adjacent department as a part-time salesman. He rushed over. The

Union Opens Talks Here on New Contracts

Contract negotiations are underway between local unions of the United Steelworkers and Salem steel fabricating plants, following the recent wage settlement in Big Steel.

Plants affected are the American-Standard Corporation, E. W. Bliss Co., the Eljer Division of the Murray Corporation, and the United Tool & Die Co. of Salem, the Columbiana Pump and F. C. Russell Co. at Columbiana and the Lifetime Products Co. at Canfield.

Current negotiations are based on the contract reached between the United Steelworkers and the major steel producers, said Edward Hilland, sub-district director of the USA.

Hilland said all of the local and district plants have been operating under extensions of contracts which expired last Sept. 1.

New contracts, he said, will include the same guarantees provided in the basic steel settlement.

Cathedral In Japan Memorial To Great Man of Christendom

YAMAGUCHI, Japan (AP)—A massive cathedral stands majestically among the pines overlooking the serene, medieval beauty of Yamaguchi.

Every quarter hour its bell tolls over the quiet city, evoking memories of one of the great men of Christendom—St. Francis Xavier, "apostle to the Indies and Japan." It was in this community of 40,000 people nearly 500 miles southwest of Tokyo that the intrepid Spanish priest began his brief but spectacular mission in 16th century Japan.

The original church he erected in 1551 later was destroyed. The present graceful cathedral, built with donations from Catholics throughout the world, replaced it on the 400th anniversary in 1951.

Its great festivals, too, are often a poetic mixture of Japanese and Western inheritances.

At Christmas time, a Japanese lantern procession winds through Yamaguchi's ancient streets, still virtually untouched by time. Like Kyoto, an early Japanese capital, Yamaguchi was not bombed in World War II.

Bearded, soft-spoken Msgr. M. Domenzaga of Pamplona, Spain, who has served in Japan for 23 years, shepherds the small flock of 700 Roman Catholics who worship here.

He showed a visitor through the big church.

St. Francis Xavier opened his church in Yamaguchi under the patronage of Lord Yoshitaka Ouchi, ruler of the province.

The Spanish Jesuit made many conversions in the tolerant atmosphere of the time and when he left a year later the church had taken firm root.

But during his absence — he died in 1552 while trying to carry the gospel to China — the Ouchi clan was destroyed by the feuding clan of Mori.

The Mori carried out one of the greatest persecutions of Christians that Japan has ever known.

Yamaguchi Catholics who were not executed fled to the mountains of the southern, neighboring Japanese island of Kyushu. There they clung to their faith secretly until the Mori revoked the ban more than 300 years later.

Confident Living

By Dr. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE
How to Get Rid of Your Inner Devil

One of the season's Broadway dramatic successes is a play called "The Tenth Man" in which a demon is exorcised from a young man by an Orthodox Jewish religious ceremony. The idea of people being possessed by demons is not, of course, confined to Orthodox Jews.

Dr. Peale

Recently I visited Galilee and saw the excavations at Capernaum where Jesus spent so much time. It was a great thrill to walk on ground which He had trod and to look at the hills and lake so dear to Him. St. Mark graphically describes how Jesus went through the towns and villages around about Capernaum, healing disease and driving devils out of the unhappy people possessed of them.

What were those devils? Were they evil, displaced spirits that somehow got into people? That, of course, is what people in those times believed.

Today we know more about such phenomena, but the problem is still a real one. I was talking to a psychiatrist not long ago who actually expressed the conviction that some people today are possessed by demons. Most of these are not as clearly defined as demons requiring the services of an exorcist to dispossess them, but they are real problems just the same. Certainly one demon most commonly possessing people today is fear. What better way to describe fear than demon? When you harbor fear in your mind, you well know you have a devil in you and it can cause you to live in your own hell. This devil and this hell is very real to the unfortunate person who is haunted by fear.

AND THERE IS the demon hate. Look deeply into the eyes of one who hates and you will see the misery which his personal demon causes him.

There are many other kinds of devils: lack of confidence, inadequacy, inferiority, shyness, sense of defeat. And sadly enough many of us are possessed of one or more of these at the same time. But fortunately these demons can be cast out. We can get free of them.

I once preached a sermon on that striking text from St. Luke (9:1) in which Jesus gave his disciples "power and authority over all devils." My sermons are printed and mailed monthly to over 300,000 people and after this particular sermon was issued, I received a letter from a man who said he had been astonished to learn there was any such statement as that in the Bible. He looked it up for himself and it gave him the first hope that he could solve his inner conflicts. He realized then that his trouble was that he had been haunted by a devil for years. So he decided to act on that text.

HE DELIBERATELY put it into practice. He told me what he did. He stood up as tall as he could and in a loud, assertive, strong voice said, "In the name of God, I take authority over this devil and I drive it out in His name." He continued to do this daily. And, he wrote me that the particular devil which had been haunting him all those years "grew weaker and finally left" after persistent treatments of this nature.

This is an interesting illustration of two important facts about inner conflict. First, it does not need to remain a permanent condition and, second, we should strongly take charge of our lives. We can do something about our inner devils. It is important to recognize the existence of any defeating and destructive qualities within us. Then we need to rise up in spiritual power and take authority over our inner devils in the name of Christ.

YOU MAY PROTEST it is much too much to suggest that there is any such thing as a devil in you. Well, you might try taking a long look in a mirror. Or more realistically a searching look into your soul. Down deep where you live with yourself alone see whether you can honestly tell yourself this is true. Most of us have our personal devils. But, in the name of God, we can drive them out. No person need stay as he is.

Business Has No Doubt

Whether or not the steel settlement will be inflationary is still being talked about as if it were an open question when in fact the question was closed by the unchallenged estimate it would cost a billion dollars in 30 months.

Any settlement that adds a billion dollars to cost with no offsetting gain in efficiency is inflationary; there can be no doubt about it.

But the significant reaction among business spokesmen is that the settlement is part and parcel of the 1960 boom that now has been transformed from hope into certainty. A few will continue to murmur that they regret the inflation which goes with the settlement, but apparently some would want to say the boom is not worth the inflation it will cost.

Even the steel industry, which has stood virtually alone in its hostility to inflation, is sharing the prospect of a boom that will keep its mills humming as customers try to buy ahead of the price rise they expect to come later.

This has been the enigma of business and, even more so, the enigma of all public officials whose decisions can speed up or slow down inflation. When does the little bit of inflation that stimulates the economy become the overdose of inflation that paralyzes the nation's vitality?

When does the word "inflation" cease to be good and become bad? Or conversely, when does it cease to be bad and become good? Its antonym, "deflation," is never good at all, yet people talk as if there could be a state of monetary Nirvana in which neither inflation nor deflation would be present—only a state of nothingness in which everything would remain static yet somehow kinetic at the same time.

Business as a whole has no doubt that a boom is materializing and will materialize faster than it would have materialized otherwise because the steel industry has made an inflationary settlement with the union that can shut and open the steel mills at will. The end justified the means, as business sees it.

Steel management, which had tried to hold the line at what it considered to be the limit of a non-inflationary settlement, is getting no credit either in the business community or is the political community for its effort.

The point had needed no proving, but never was it more clearly evident that Americans have no consensus on the meaning of "inflation." The thing that makes them shudder in fear when mentioned in one tone of voice makes them shiver with delight when mentioned in another tone of voice. They're shivering with delight this January, though they shuddered in horror last summer.

Confession Panel to Help Police

The U.S. Supreme Court has blown away whatever cloud of doubt still hung over criminal convictions obtained by confessions in which the defendants' rights were violated. It will not uphold the convictions.

This ruling, made in a 1948 robber conviction struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court last Monday, is consistent with the trend of judicial rulings in recent years. Even confessions obtained in presumably legal ways have been challenged with a high rate of success.

Though it has been common for lawyers to view these reversals as triumphs for their profession in defending the citizens' rights, the reversals, have been breaking the back of police morale. There is virtually no foolproof way for police authority to obtain a confession that will not be challenged on the grounds it was irregularly obtained.

But one way that never has been tried might be worth trying if police authority is going up against a blank wall in every case that involves a confession.

Police authority could be given access to the service of a panel of electors of good repute who would serve voluntarily as witnesses to confessions. The electors thereafter could testify to the methods they had witnessed. If the methods were proper, this would have the effect of upholding some confessions that otherwise would be thrown out or surrounded with so much doubt that they were made valueless.

Eleven Billion Stuck In Our Claw

By crude arithmetic, based on an estimated population of 180 million Americans, the per capita stake in negotiations between the United States and Russia over 11 billion dollars in wartime aid is $61.11.

That is what Americans must pay. What they will get back, if anything, is a few cents on the dollar. The government already has said it would settle for 800 million, or about $4 per capita.

But in this case, it's really the principle that matters—not the money. Russia is the only holdout of the nations that received World War II lend-lease aid. This has been one of the sorest points in relations between the two countries.

The only concrete agreement made between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchov last September was to reopen negotiations on the lend-lease debt after an intermission of almost a decade. The United States never expected to be repaid in full. It did not expect that Russia or any other lend-lease beneficiary would repay in any realistic proportion to value received. But it did expect that countries it had helped out of its resources would recognize a moral obligation to make a settlement.

Russia has recognized no obligation whatever. It never even made an accounting for 84 merchant ships that should have been returned to the United States, despite the writeoff of 583 other naval craft furnished by the United States.

The negotiations now being reopened are a critical test of Russian intentions. It is about to be revealed whether or not there has been an actual change of heart in the Kremlin.

Confidence is built like a brick wall, one piece at a time. The United States will not be able to believe in Russian professions of good faith until it has seen proof of good faith.

When the matter was last discussed in 1951, Russia dismissed with contempt the U.S. proposal to settle the lend-lease account for 800 million dollars payable over a long term of years at a low rate of interest. In the meantime, Americans would continue to carry the debt by paying interest on it themselves; the debt was part of their own national debt.

Russian negotiators at that time hinted at a figure not to exceed 300 million dollars, which was so far from the U.S. figure that negotiations were broken off and never resumed.

If there is going to be any real improvement in relations between the United States and Russia, the first brick to be laid in place will have to be a settlement of Russia's lend-lease obligation.

Once Over

The Federal Aviation Agency has come out against stewpots flying "pint to pint" on airplanes going from point to point. Passengers who fly "blind" will face tough days. No passenger who has had enough will be allowed on a plane and can be fined $1,000 for drinking out of his own bottle.

This makes sense. Anybody who can't stay sober with both feet off the ground ain't trying.

Liquor must be poured only by steward or stewardess. Odd thing is that air pilots and steward associations oppose this, claiming it makes cops of crew members. It's hard to see why excessive drinking up in the air shouldn't be acted against as part of safety, peace and non-barroom conduct for the short time required to complete a 400-mile-an-hour journey.

A sky-traveling drinker is a familiar nuisance. He acts as if he is riding a broom over a mardi gras. He thinks the airplane operator has overlooked conviviality and that his mission is to fill the gap.

All he needs is a paper hat to look like an amateur nightclub comedian attempting an instrument flight between a New Year's Eve party and a Halloween disturbance.

The worst example is the boozier who totters up and down the aisle assuring passengers they have nothing to fear but a return of prohibition. He makes passes at the stewardess, demands the right to adjust the pilot's altimeter and indicates a desire to get everybody out on a wing for a barn dance.

His belief is that flying is only 100 per cent safe when he is 90 per cent blotto.

If he isn't a menace up in the clouds, who is? Take away his bottle by all means and suspend his permit to put himself in orbit around all the other passengers.

Reunion Dinner

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP) — According to the papers, the old steel strike crowd met again the other night at the home of Richard M. Nixon in Washington.

The stories said that the top negotiators of both management and the union gathered at the Nixon place to celebrate the settlement they had worked out after many nights of negotiation.

Beyond listing the guests, the stories didn't say what happened at the reunion dinner except that "the late bitterness was dissolved in expansive good fellowship." But as to who said what to whom, the reports said nothing. So, I've been trying to imagine that evening.

As nearly as I can visualize it, the Nixons served drinks in the living room to their guests, who included Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell; Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of U. S. Steel Corp.; R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator; David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union; and Arthur J. Goldberg, union general counsel.

The cocktail hour went off nicely although the maid once gave McDonald's bourbon to Blough but Blough passed over the mistake lightly.

There was another round and then they went in to dinner.

Automatically, the boys started to line up on opposite sides of the table, union on one side, management on the other, but Pat Nixon insisted they mingle on both sides, and they did, and that went off fine since all the guests were expert at eating with one hand and keeping the other on their wallets.

Several guests remarked on the tastiness of the filet mignon and, glowing, Mrs. Nixon observed, "I'm delighted you like it, gentlemen, but isn't it awful the way the price of steak goes up every day? Really, I don't know what we'll do about this inflation."

There followed a strained pause during which management and labor avoided looking at one another and the vice president and the secretary of labor studied the lint on their lapels.

But the wine glasses were refilled and the expansive good fellowship expanded even further. The party then adjourned to the living room and the cigars were lit.

McDonald, looking intently at the fireplace, said to Conrad Cooper: "You know, Con, it was right here, in front of this fireplace, that you accused me of not bargaining in good faith for the exact 100th time."

"Wasn't that right after you said I was deliberately misrepresenting the facts about the price spiral?" Cooper asked, his neck muscles tightening slightly.

"What did you fellows think of the bowl games?" Nixon interposed.

But the football talk never got off the ground because Mitchell was feeling nostalgic.

"You know, boys," he said warmly, "when I think of how hard you battled each other in this very same house and how you finally agreed, like the fine Americans you are, to end the longest steel strike in history right in this very same house, well, there's something wonderful about a reunion like this. Maybe, for old time's sake, we ought to meet here again next year."

"Well, maybe not precisely this house," Nixon said quietly, almost to himself.

Mr. K's New Look

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Latest Move In Contrast to Camp David Spirit

The Soviets are great imitators as well as propagandists. Nikita Khrushchev's latest announcement that he is going to cut down the size of the Soviet army means really that he is adopting the "new look" policy which the United States put into effect several years ago.

There is not much use these days for Russia to spend the bulk of its money for land armies when nuclear weapons are available to threaten attack and conduct what is known as "blackmail diplomacy." This Khrushchev carried on in the same speech in his boasts about the Soviets' "incredible weapons" in missiles and rockets.

The truth is that there is a stalemate today in nuclear weapons and all the claims about new rockets and new missiles will not lessen the responsibility of the Soviet regime to refrain from plunging its own people into a nuclear war.

Inside the United States, the "new look" has resulted in a big debate as to whether land armies aren't still important for what is known as "limited war."

Undoubtedly, if a foolproof agreement were ever signed that would prohibit the use of nuclear weapons, then conventional forces would come into their own again. In the present stage of international propaganda, however, while conventional forces are not being abandoned, nuclear weapons are being developed with increasing intensity of effort.

ONE OF THE TROUBLES with the Khrushchev announcement is that nobody can be sure what he means when he says he is cutting the army by 1,200,000 men. It could mean merely the transfer from uniform to civilian clothes of great numbers of men who still would be engaged in arms production.

Also, there is no way of knowing what the true potential of the Soviet regime is on the military side, for it can count upon huge forces recruited in Communist Asia.

The United States demobilized shortly after World War II the great bulk of its armed forces from a peak level of 12,300,000 in wartime, but in view of communist aggression, as the State Department says, "the level was later raised and stands today at approximately 2 1/2 million." The Soviets now claim their total forces will be reduced to 2,423,000 in the next year or two.

It has been suggested that Khrushchev's speech indicates that the Soviet Union is moving more toward the "massive retaliation" strategy followed by the United States in recent years. Although in America this policy has been derided by some critics — largely by those who advocate a build-up of conventional forces for "limited wars" — the fact is that the phrase still carries a world of meaning in preventing a big war today.

THE UNITED STATES does not any longer stress the phrase "massive retaliation" but emphasizes its "deterrent power." It all amounts to the same thing. One side will not start a war without counting the possible extent of destruction that could be inflicted on it by the other side.

There was for a time a belief that the Soviet Union, with its missiles and rockets, could destroy in one "first blow" the bomber bases inside the United States and wreak such wide destruction that the retaliatory power of this country would be frustrated.

Since the development of missiles and rockets that can be launched from submarines, there is danger to a country like the Soviet Union that it would receive tremendous punishment if it ever started a war.

Obviously it would be difficult to find and destroy submarines and it cannot be forgotten that the water areas of the world are far greater than the land surfaces.

What, then, is the purpose of the Khrushchev speech at this time?

Plainly it is a propaganda move. The Soviet dictator believes, as did Adolf Hitler, that the free world can be bluffed into submission. With a controlled press inside Russia and with the press of the free world printing everything that the Soviet leader says, the wide circulation of Communist pronouncements is assured.

IT IS APPARENT that the West is not going to be fooled by the propaganda. The comments from members of Congress, irrespective of party, are highly critical of the Khrushchev speech. Senate Democratic leader Johnson declares that the Soviet premier "holds out an olive branch and at the same time tries to hit us over the head with it."

It certainly is a contrast to the so-called "Spirit of Camp David" which only a short while ago gave the world an impression that peace was just around the corner; and that tensions certainly would be erased in the year 1960.

The West is not likely to be cowed by the Khrushchev utterances and the world will witness in the next few weeks a resumption of threats and counter-threats and warnings and counter-warnings.

It makes one wonder what all the "summit" meetings really accomplish.

GOP Possibility

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Rep. Ford Has Vice President's Qualifications

If a stranger to our ways were to take at face value all the gossip he hears about the possibilities for the Republican vice presidential nomination, he would conclude that it is an office devoutly to be avoided.

The image is of pre-Nixon days, when that constitutional office, once graced by John Adams and Thomas Jefferson degenerated into a voiceless, idle sinecure.

Yet he might immediately mistrust this conclusion when he realizes that today's vice president may well be the Republican party's nominee for president in six months.

Perhaps some of the talk is meant to whittle down Richard M. Nixon's stature by reducing the office to its past Lilliputian proportions. But in most of the "dope" we find a search going on for a person who would offend no one, who would "represent" some geographical section or some religious group of a school of ideology far removed from that of the presidential candidate or some other irrelevance.

THE REALITY is that President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon have built a new significance into the office. Geography and religion have become irrelevant.

The truth is that a candidate for vice president cannot win votes for the ticket and may lose some. He should be ideologically like the man whom he might succeed, in case nature or an assassin's bullet calls him to the succession.

He should be fairly young and capable of learning the presidential duties and responsibilities and be able to speak at home and abroad for the president's policies. He should be the first mate on the Ship of State.

Governors, so often chosen in the past, are versed in state, not national affairs. Senators are mostly too old and are set in their ideas and ways.

The best place to look for the new qualifications is among the fairly young members of the House of Representatives. They know how to campaign or they wouldn't be where they are; they know a lot, if they have been faithful to their House work. And their youth is measurable assurance that they will live through the term.

Consider, for example, Gerald R.

Ford, Jr., 47 years old, representative from the Fifth Michigan District. He is serving his sixth consecutive term. His life has been full and his career auspicious.

At the University of Michigan he not only did his studies well but was a star on the great Wolverine championship football teams of the 1930's. He was chosen "most valuable player" on the team of 1934, and last year was selected on the "after 25 years all American" team.

HE WAS GRADUATED from the Yale Law School. Four years of service in the Navy during the war followed. Then, encouraged by Sen. Vandenberg, he entered politics and in 1948 won the seat which he now occupies.

In succeeding elections he has had higher and higher majorities, exceeding even President Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

A keen political reporter in Grand Rapids says that "his personality and sincerity are characteristics that deeply impress those who know him." And apparently, that includes a huge majority of his fellow citizens.

His record in the House has been fundamentally conservative. He has voted consistently for limiting government expenditures, for legislation protecting the free economy, for restricting the dangerous power of union bosses and for ample national security.

In a state shaken by financial troubles and misgovernment, he has been urged to run against Gov. Mennen Williams or for senator. But he has preferred the opportunities for greater influence in the House.

These are obvious qualifications for the revitalized office of vice president.

Minneapolis Girl Wed To William D. Halverstadt

William D. Halverstadt and his bride, the former Miss Phyllis Jeanette Anderson, will reside in Minneapolis, Minn., at the conclusion of their wedding trip to Arizona and Colorado.

The couple were married Dec. 29 in Calvary Lutheran Church in Golden Valley, Minn.

The Rev. Ernest A. Gjetten officiated at the double ring ceremony which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Anderson of Minneapolis and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Halverstadt of RD 5, Salem.

Music for the ceremony was provided by the Minneapolis Choralists and Robert Mantzke.

Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage. She was attired in a white silk gown styled with a slim skirt and chapel train. Lace and pearls accented the scoop neckline. A small crown of pearls held her fingertip veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanots and orchids.

The bride's sister, Kathleen Anderson, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Anderson, Marie Gjerde, and Gayle Whitney, all of Minneapolis.

They were identically attired in dull aqua satin gowns, fashioned with three-quarter length sleeves and bell-shaped skirts. Their flower were cascade arrangements of white pine, small white pompons and pink carnations.

Another sister of the bride, Merilee Anderson, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress of white organdy. Her bouquet was a miniature of those carried by the attendants.

Richard Halverstadt of Chesterland, O. was his brother's best man. The ushers were Harry Sutton, Monroe Bell, William Baker, Dale Henneman and Richard Faunce of Minneapolis.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Anderson chose a beige embossed taffeta dress, and Mrs. Halverstadt wore a dusty rose lace dress. Green cymbidium orchids complemented the ensembles.

Three hundred guests greeted the couple at the reception in the church parlors.

Mrs. Halverstadt attended Iowa Wesleyan College and is now a Junior in the College of Education at the University of Minnesota. Her husband attended the University of Cincinnati and is a graduate of Heidelberg College. He is employed as sales manager of group pensions for the Prudential Insurance Co. in Minneapolis. The couple are members of the Minneapolis Choralists.

NEXT TO GODLINESS

Soap became a part of his daily life long before he understood its use. He's still more concerned with its bubbles than its cleansing properties—but he knows soap is mighty important.

And no one ever thought of postponing his bath until he was old enough to make decisions for himself!

Wise parents never postpone a child's religious training. Long before he is able to reason, he needs the character-building and guidance of the Church. Christianity should become important to him in his daily experience before its truths can be fully grasped by his mind.

We are fortunate that our churches are equipped to instill a vital Christian faith in the youngest child. Fortunate is the boy or girl whose parents begin his religious training in their church's Nursery or Beginners' Department.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Inspired Warren Invaders Shaded By Quakers 65-59

Locals' Shooting Off; Hunter Races

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Salem's Quakers, playing just good enough to win, chalked up their sixth victory in seven games on the home court Friday night by turning back an inspired Warren Panther quintet 65-59.

The Quakers experienced their second worst shooting night of the season but had the game under control except for a brief spurt by the Panthers midway through the final quarter.

Salem took a 52-45 lead into the fourth period, but a spirited rally led by John Brugler and Jack Currington, a pair of 6-3 sharpshooters, brought Warren to within four points of the Quakers with 2:05 remaining in the game.

Coach John Cabas had his boys go into a stall at this point. Warren came out in desperation to get the ball and left Jim Lehwald open under the hoop. Lehwald canned a bunny with just 59 seconds remaining to make the score 63-57 and put the Quakers out of danger.

CURRINGTON converted a pair of fouls to make the score 63-59 before Dave Hunter connected for the Quakers just before the final buzzer.

Hunter's basket was his eighth of the night, and together with nine successful foul tries, gave him a total of 25 points, high for both teams.

Warren, playing without Paul Warfield, who was sidelined with a sprained ankle, lost its fourth game in a row and its seventh of the season. The Panthers have won four.

Coach Dick Boyd's quintet played well enough to make the game surprisingly close. They actually outshot the highly rated Quakers from both the field and the foul line.

Warren cashed in on 20 of 51 shots from the field for a 39-2 average. Salem took 66 shots and made good on 25 of them for a 37.9 average. Salem had been averaging better than 48 per cent in field goal accuracy prior to last night's contest.

FROM THE FOUL line Warren converted 16 of 27 free throws while Salem made good on 15 of 25 attempts.

Except for a few brief spurts and several fine individual efforts, Salem's showing last night was not particularly impressive. Referee Stan Evans of Youngstown and LaVerne Haidet of Alliance caught the Quakers traveling with the ball more often than one might expect of the state's third ranked team.

Salem lost the ball on numerous occasions with bad passes, but Warren was guilty of the same mistakes.

The Quakers did more shooting from outside than they have all season. Oddly enough though, it was the big men who were doing most of the long range shooting. The guards, Hunter and Dan Krichbaum, continued to be successful in driving inside for most of their shots.

SALEM'S BIGGEST lead in the game was 13 points. It came with 2:00 remaining in the third quarter when Eric Theiss hit on a long one-hander to put the Quakers on top 48-35.

Salem held quarter leads of 17-13, 33-25 and 52-43.

Don Davidson hauled down 12 rebounds to lead the Quakers in that department once again. The 6-4 forward also managed to cage seven field goals for 14 points to make him runner-up to Hunter for Salem scoring honors.

Krichbaum, who tallied 26 points his last time out against Columbus East, was held to 11 last night.

Brugler's 18 markers were high for Warren. Currington was close behind with 17.

Another large crowd of approximately 2,000 fans witnessed the contest. Special seats were again set up at the ends of the court to handle the overflow. Several aisle seats were also sold last night.

Salem will make its first road appearance of the season tonight when it travels to Ravenna to meet the Ravens.

Here are statistics for the Salem-Warren game:

Eskey Paces Quaker Attack

Salem Jayvees Pile Up 68-30 Win Over Hapless Warren

Salem's Reserves had too much class for Warren Friday night as they piled up a lopsided 68-30 victory over the Panther Jayvees in a contest played at the Salem High gym.

The win was the fifth in six quintet.

Guard Bob Eskey once again paced the Salem attack. The 5-9 sophomore sank five field goals and hit a perfect seven for seven from the foul line to give him a total of 17 points. Center Ron Janovec also looked good for the Quaker Jayvees, connecting for 14 points.

Junior Fred Harshman played only about half the game but added 12 points to the Salem attack.

Art Foreman was Warren's top scorer with nine markers.

Salem wasted little time in putting the game on ice. It piled up a 17-7 lead after one period. The Quakers stretched the margin to 37-10 by halftime and 54-17 after three periods.

Salem's biggest lead in the game was 46 points 63-17 early in the third period. The Panthers had considerable trouble combating Salem's full court press.

Coach Zellars substituted freely, getting 17 men into the game. Nine of them broke into the scoring column.

The Quaker Jayvees also showed marked improvement at the foul line where they canned 14 of 21 attempts. Warren cashed in on only eight of 23 free throw attempts.

Salem Freshmen Edge Poland 29-28

Concentrating most of its scoring in one big quarter, Salem's freshman cage squad squeezed out a 29-28 victory over the Poland freshmen Thursday in the Salem Junior High gym.

Poland moved out to a 6-3 first period lead only to see the Quakers come back with a rush to take a 19-10 margin at intermission. Poland trimmed the lead to 27-22 at the three-quarter mark.

The Bulldog freshmen just missed pulling the game out in the final period when they outscored the Quakers 6-2.

The evenly matched teams had almost identical shooting marks. Salem connected on 10 of 45 shots from the field while Poland was out for 46.

The Bulldogs converted 8 of 18 charity tosses while the Quakers hit 9 for 22.

Dick Stark paced Salem to its sixth win in eight games by hooping 11 of his team's 29 points. Walter was high point man for the Poland freshmen with 10.

Unbeaten streaks, home floor jinxes, national ranking, Oscar Robertson, Jerry West. Put 'em all together and they spell the battle of survival for undefeated Cincinnati and Villanova tonight.

The two are the only major college basketball teams in the country with perfect records. But they figure to be hard-pressed to stay unsullied against Bradley and West Virginia, respectively.

Cincinnati, the nation's top-ranked team, plays once-beaten Bradley in quest of its 14th consecutive victory and 15th in a row since winning the consolation game in last year's NCAA championship play-offs. Bradley is 11-1.

Villanova is ranked ninth and won 10 games. But the Wildcats have their most formidable test in West Virginia, 14-1 and rated third.

Lurking in the shadows are California's Golden Bears, a 54-43 winner over Washington State Friday night and ready to vault into the nation's top spot if Cincy loses and they beat Washington tonight.

Both Cincinnati and Villanova face home floor jinxes. Bradley has won 30 consecutive games on its home court at Peoria, Ill., since being upset by Portland 55-55, Jan. 20, 1958. Bradley beat the Bearcats the past two seasons at Peoria. The Braves' only loss this season came on the Cincinnati floor, 86-71.

West Virginia has won 39 in a row on its Morgantown, W. Va. court. The Mountaineers lone setback this season was to California in the finals of the Los Angeles Classic during the Christmas holidays.

However, home jinx or not, Bradley will have to stop Robertson, the country's leading scorer with a 38.2 average. Bradley's task has been made easier with the loss of Bob Wiesenhahn, Cincy's top rebounder and ace defensive player. Wiesenhahn hurt his foot last week and hasn't played since.

The Southwest Conference has a three-way tie for first, with the possibility of a four-way deadlock if Arkansas beats Rice tonight.

Texas A&M, rebounding from its first loss Tuesday night, beat beat Texas 72-61 Friday night.

St. Paul found the hoop for just three points and fell 18-3 to McKinley on Tuesday. For Coach Vince Crawford's McKinley quintet, Klepper and Wagner led the scoring with four points apiece. Mike Malloy had two for St. Paul.

Coach Frank Hoopes' Prospect five downed Fourth Street 21-15 in a contest played on Wednesday. Fleischer of Prospect and Lipplait of Fourth Street each tallied six points.

The Touchdown Club presented a check for $3,000 to the Olympic Fund Committee from the receipts as some 700 paid $10 each to see the stars on parade.

Syracuse University, collegiate grid champion, walked off with multiple honors as Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder was honored as coach of the year, his team was named the outstanding collegiate combination in the land, and Roger Davis was lauded as the best lineman of the season.

Major awards went to Heisman Trophy winner Billy Cannon of Louisiana State as the best college football player of the year; to Harvey Haddix, Pittsburgh pitcher, for his 13-inning stint of perfect pitching against Milwaukee; to Johnny Unitas of Baltimore as the outstanding professional footballer; to Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox as athlete of the decade, and to track star Jesse Owens as tops for the century.

But the big parade did include coach Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts; coach Chalmers (Bump) Elliott of Michigan; featherweight champion Davey Moore, amateur golf champion Jackie

The United Golden Eagles sent Fairfield-Waterford down to its sixth cage loss of the season 70-46 Friday night in a one-sided contest on the Rebels' floor.

At the intermission the score was 34-20 and at the three-quarter mark, 54-35.

Contest Tied 9 Times;; Radler Hits for 28

The host Sebring Trojans eked out a 62-60 victory over Leetonia Friday night despite a 20-point effort by the Bears' high scoring ace Lee Radler.

The lead was exchanged often during the closely fought contest. The game was tied 13-all at the end of the first period, but the Trojans forged to the front by the intermission 31-30.

The Bears were not to be denied in the third quarter, fighting back to attain a 45-43 margin entering the final stanza.

The game was tied nine times and looked as though it could have gone either way at any minute.

But after regaining the lead in the fourth quarter and finding themselves with a slight margin late in that period, the Trojans went into an effective stall for the last minute and a half to squeeze out the victory.

The big gun for the winners was Joe McAbier who netted 18. Fred Brunner accounted for 15 and Tom Baxter, 11.

Larry Holloway added 17 to the Bears' total.

In the prelim, the younger Trojans, paced by Dan Dennis with 21 tallies, left the Bear Cubs on the short end of 55-37 score.

Sebring will invade Minerva next Tuesday night when Leetonia will travel to East Palestine.

Mount Union Will Seek 3rd Loop Win Against Marietta

ALLIANCE — After completely outclassing and overpowering the high flying Wooster Scots 85-69 Wednesday, the Purple Raiders will travel to Marietta tonight in quest of their third conference win in four starts.

The Raiders, who seemed to have gained momentum since the Christmas holiday, are on a current three-game win streak and will meet the Pioneers of Marietta to try to better their present 8-5 overall record.

The Pioneers, paced by conference scoring leader Carl Wolfe (26.3), will be in search of their fifth win in eight starts and their first OC victory after one loss.

The game was tied nine times and looked as though it could have gone either way at any minute.

But after regaining the lead in the fourth quarter and finding themselves with a slight margin late in that period, the Trojans went into an effective stall for the last minute and a half to squeeze out the victory.

The rebounding department finds Agnoli leading the team with an average of 13.6, closely followed by Brubaker with 12 per game. McMaster holds one of the best averages in the nation in foul shooting with a blistering 85.2 per cent or 29 of 34. The best shooting percentage is owned by Agnoli, 42 per cent.

According to the OAC rankings this week, Agnoli is placed second in rebounding while Brubaker and McMaster are in the number 12 and 13 spots, respectively.

After getting off to a slow start by dropping three of their first four games, the Purple Raiders have shown definite signs of improvement and seem to be in the position of spoiler for many teams.

The Raiders will return home on Wednesday when they meet a non-conference foe, West Liberty State, W. Va.

They return to conference play on Jan. 23 when they play host to a highly rated Oberlin team before taking a break for semester examinations.

Second Round Play to Open Monday In Volleyball League

City Adult League volleyball teams will get a fresh start on Monday when second round play opens at the Memorial Building.

Eight of the nine teams will welcome the new start because they were snowed under by the Post Office squad during the first round. The Post office team compiled a 22-2 record, a full seven games better than runners-up Electric Furnace and Kiwanis.

Three make up games must be played yet in the first round between Bliss and Eljer Shipping. The games had been awarded to Bliss by forfeit but Shipping successfully protested that it had not been notified of the playing date.

In games Thursday night, Eljer Office waited until the last contest of the round to win its first game of the season. After 23 straight defeats, Eljer Office eked out a 16-4 victory over champion Post Office.

It was only the second defeat of the season for the Post Office outfit. They had won their first two games from Eljer Office by scores of 12-5 and 10-7.

In other games Thursday Deming took two out of three matches from Bliss and Kiwanis captured three straight from Eljer Enamel by scores of 15-8, 15-6 and 15-9.

The Louisville cagers ran off in the first quarter to a 17-11 lead. In the second canto they advanced this margin to 38-25.

In the third stanza, the Louisville squad hiked its lead to 57-39.

This victory gives the Leopards a 3-5 season standing, and a 2-2 record in loop play. The Leopards will face invading Columbiana Tuesday night.

Vienna jolted the invading McDonald Blue Devils Friday night 76-50 for its 10th win of the season. McDonald, plagued by illness which kept two veteran seniors inactive, found scoring difficult. Chuck Patterson netted 18 points while Jim Betts and Vesey brought home 11 each for the Blue Devils.

Fred Berecek paced the victors with 29 tallies. Close on his heels for high scoring honors was Larry Lay, who netted 24 for Vienna.

Vienna gained a 20-13 lead in the first quarter, and padded this margin to 37-24 in the second stanza.

Both squads scored consistently in the third division, but the Blue Devils were on the bottom at its conclusion, 56-40.

Vienna ramblod on in the final period to tally 20 markers, while holding its contenders to 10.
